In English, Willow Class have been working hard on different types of writing inspired by Simon Bartram’s funny picture book Man on the Moon. They wrote postcards from the moon, questions to ask an astronaut, and wrote and decorated their own rocket shape poems.

In Science, our new half term topic is the Human Body. We have identified major body parts and described which parts of the body are associated with the senses.

We are very impressed with the rockets that some children chose to make for their Learning Log work this week – well done to parents too!

Parents— Reminder that World Book Day is next Thursday. All children can dress up as a character from their favourite book!
